As some local folk may say...

“Safe in the sanctuary of The Quicken Tree, where Fillongley still stands.”

Steeped in folklore and legend, the Quicken Tree — an ancient name for the Rowan Tree — was believed to possess magical powers of protection and healing, offering a place of safety and sanctuary to those beneath its branches.

Here in Fillongley, the Quicken Tree was said to stand watch over Old Fillongley Hall, protecting all those who lived within.

Today, The Quicken Tree Restaurant proudly carries on that name and its story — a warm and welcoming sanctuary nestled amongst the rolling Warwickshire countryside, where friends and families can gather, relax and enjoy wonderful food together.

And a little of the old magic remains...

Our chef harnesses one of nature’s most ancient elements — fire — to create delicious dishes, wonderful flavours and memorable feasts to enjoy.

So come in, relax and make yourself at home.

Welcome to The Quicken Tree — where heritage, hospitality and a little touch of magic come together.
