1842 Afternoon Tea

1842 Afternoon Tea £18.42pp / Add a glass of prosecco £6.00pp

Afternoon tea is a British institution introduced around 1840. Originating from Anna, the 7th Duchess of Bedford who had a 'sinking feeling' in the afternoon and felt the urgent need of having a pot of tea and a light snack. By inviting over friends later on, she created a legacy that symbolizes friends, relaxation, sharing of stories and of course, the love of tea.

A selection of finger sandwiches on white or brown bread (gfa). Chef's selection can include tuna & cucumber, mature cheddar cheese & chutney (v), ham & pickle, beef & horseradish, smoked salmon & crème fraîche, egg mayonnaise (v), cheese savoury (v).

An additional savoury item from chef's selection can include; sausage roll, vegetable quiche (v), mini pork pie, hot cheese roll

--

Freshly baked fruit (gfa) and cheese scones with strawberry jam, clotted cream, tomato chutney and butter (v).

--

A selection of cakes and patisseries. Chef's selection can include carrot cake (v) (gf), macarons (gf), chocolate brownie (v), passionfruit slice (v), strawberry & cream profiterole (v), chocolate tart (v) (gfa)
