Amber & Orange

White wines, when fermented & macerated on their skins, end up looking orange, or amber in colour. These wines are characterized by complex & intriguing flavour profiles, showcasing notes of dried fruits, nuts, honey & exotic spices. With a rich and textural mouthfeel, they strike a fascinating balance between the freshness of white wines & the structure of red wines. While a seemingly new trend, orange wines are as ancient as winemaking & we recommend any wine lover to fasten their seat belts & start exploring.

With their subtle fruit, often tied together with a touch of salinity or a mineral lift, these wines are delightful as aperitif & the perfect match for our lighter dishes. Pure & simple, they can offer citrus fruit, green apples, white flowers, pears & a vibrant acidity, framework of their subtlety & finesse.

White Well structured

Well structured whites have a distinct sense of refinement & elegance, with each component integrated to create a harmonious whole. The norm here is a solid backbone of acidity, providing freshness & vitality, with well defined fruit and additional complexity derived from aging on lees or oak. Textured & multilayered, well structured white wines offer a cohesive drinking experience that is both satisfying & memorable.
