

A bit about us....

We (Matt & Ellie), became the landlords of The White Lion in 2007, eighteen years has gone very quickly. We follow in the footsteps of a long line of successful landlords, which we can date back to the 1850's, although we're sure the pub was here before that. The most famous landlord was Bob Maudsley who ran the pub for 45 years as an alehouse with the beer coming in jugs straight from the cellar. His time here means that many still refer to the pub as 'owd Bobs'. Over the following years the pub had a name change from The White Lion to The Tudor Inn & went on to build up a great reputation as a friendly family pub. If the walls of this pub could talk, there would be some amazing stories to tell.

It's great to think of all the changes that have occurred in the past hundred years, yet in essentials the pub the same. We are passionate about the importance of pubs as part of our British Heritage, and we love the community spirit that only a local pub can bring. We have built up a wonderful team here which make us very proud, and love watching them learn and develop. In 2020, like everyone else we shut our doors, but continued to serve takeaways throughout Covid and moved our weekly Quiz online. In 2023, we bought the pub, something we never thought we would get the opportunity to do, and whilst we are still finding our feet as a free house, it gives us the opportunity to continue the pub's long tradition as a family run local pub.
